Traffic and Parking Regulations Board Policy No. 421

Board Policy No. 421, Traffic and Parking Regulations, has been revised to delete provisions that were primarily related to day-to-day operations such as traffic and parking services, office hours, instructions on how to affix parking permits, the process for disabled parking permits, the number and types of permits authorized, parking area assignments, and driving and parking regulations. The revised policy retains provisions regarding the authority of the university and its police department, permit fees, and the appeals process. The revised policy allows the president to approve additional regulations regarding the operation and parking of motor vehicles on campus as recommended by the chief of staff and the chief of police.

The language to be deleted is stricken through, and language to be added is highlighted.

The board unanimously adopted the following resolution upon motion by Michael Stanton and second by Amy Denton:

That the Board of Trustees approves the following revisions to Board Policy No. 421, Traffic and Parking Regulations, as attached to this resolution, and the changes set forth shall be effective beginning January 1, 2024

The new name reflects the fact that the degree program in religious studies is called Religious Studies, not Religion. In addition, there is some confusion as to what this program is and what the academic study of religion is in a state university. This name change to Philosophy and Religious Studies better reflects what is taught and studied in the department and better communicates to students, advisors, administrators, faculty in other departments, and external observers what the department does in terms of academic religious studies.

All appropriate university councils and administrators have recommended adoption of this change.
